a project and have never had a bond claim. Schedules and budgets are meant to be kept, and we strive every day to do so,” remarked man in an interview with the Product. As one of the largest construction enterprises in the nation, Delta has the ability to self-perform many aspects of a construction project, and the financial strength of the entire institution ensures each client of our ability to always perform – from ground-breaking to ribbon cutting, and just as important, through the warranty period, added N. Amin Osman. “Ultimately, our success in this business is measured one project at a time. After the completion of each project we undertake, there must remain a satisfied client – one who will ask us back for the next project and recommend us to others. Otherwise, we have never failed in our mission of providing superior construction services.

We simply try harder, and the results speak for themselves – give us a call if we can help you with your next project. Delta is headed by N. Amin Osman, a trained and experienced civil engineer who came to Malawi in 1993. He is originally from India. N. Amin Osman did his engineering studies in India but worked for several years in Oman, Iraq and Kenya before travelling to Malawi in the 1990s. He was among the technical personnel that laid the fibre optic cables throughout Lilongwe for the Malawi Telecommunications Limited (MTL). It did not take him long before he set up his own company in 1999 after noting that Malawi needed a good construction company and in partnership with local companies in 1999, he set his footnotes on the ground and today, Delta is a force to reckon with in the construction industry. “It wasn’t very long when I got a good project funded by the World Bank. It was a big project in the health sector throughout Malawi, building health centres. Of course, we finished the project in good time, with good quality.
